"Mauna Kea" to make better time and thus permit this splendid steamer to run two trips each week to Hilo rather than one as at present.

Trans-Pacific Steamships.

I am also pleased to report that trans-Pacific steamship accommodation has been improved somewhat during the past year, yet I can foresee congestion and consequent interference with travel to Hawaii, especially during the year of the exposition, unless the passenger carrying facilities between Honolulu and San Francisco are at least doubled. I am of the opinion, however, that an increase of 100 per cent in accommodation will be found totally inadequate to meet the demand. Owing to the present coastwise shipping law, we must depend upon American steamers, and I hope that the American lines now in operation, the Matson Navigation Company, Oceanic Steamship Company and the Pacific Mail will increase their fleet by adding enough modern steamships to care for the business that is so rapidly being developed.

Hawaii Promotion Committee.

The large increase in travel, the making of Hawaii a summer as well as a winter resort for tourists, the homeland of the retired business and professional man and well-to-do citizen of other less favored localities is mainly due to the carefully planned, systematic, untiring work of the Hawaii Promotion Committee, which has accomplished so much for the Territory with the small amount of money at its command. I would like very much to see at least $50,000 per annum placed at the disposal of this committee for the next three years, with a further sum of $100,000 to be used during the year 1915. I do not believe that the people of Hawaii could make any other investment which would prove so generally beneficial and which would yield such large returns.

Panama-Pacific International Exposition.

The Territorial Exposition Committee, of which our secretary is chairman, is planning an exhibit at San Francisco in 1915 which promises to exceed in beauty, interest and educational value anything hitherto attempted by Hawaii. To carry out their plans will require a large expenditure, but it is the greatest opportunity we have ever had to advertise Hawaii, and I hope most sincerely that the recommendations that will ultimately be submitted by this committee may be approved by the Territorial legislature and that a liberal appropriation will be made. We cannot afford to let the Philippines, for instance, outdo us, and they are preparing to expend half a million dollars in bringing the attractions and resources of the Pearl of the Orient to the hundreds of thousands of well-to-do people who will be in San Francisco at that time.

It is but natural to turn from travel matters to hotel accommodations, and it affords me satisfaction to be able to say at this time that our hotels and boarding houses are fully equal to the best, and that each year sees a decided enlargement and betterment of accommodations for the traveler throughout the islands.

Railways.

The principal railway development during the past year has been the extension of the Hilo railway along the east coast line of the island of Hawaii, north toward the rich Hamakua district. The completion of this line will be a matter of great commercial importance to Hilo. This beautiful city already shows signs of active development. Her merchants, real estate dealers and others report that business is good and the outlook most encouraging. The Oahu Railway Company has extended its line to elehau and to new pineapple centers in the Wahiawa district.

Street Railway.

The Honolulu Rapid Transit and Land Company during the past year has doubled a large part of its track, effected quite an extension of the Nuuanu line, increased the frequency of its service to different points, added new and up-to-date cars to its rolling stock, in fact, has, as in the past, kept pace with the city's development.

Telephones.

The substitution of the automatic for the Bell system of telephones has recently been effected at great expense. The telephone company has erected a modern office and operating building, placed the wires throughout the central part of the city underground, and made many miles of extension, with the result that Honolulu today has one of the very best telephone systems to be found in the United States.

Roads.

While but little road work has been done during the past year, a great deal is in contemplation, the last legislature making appropriations soon available, the expenditure of which will give to each island of the group a macadamized belt road, with the necessary feeders, enabling us to say that Hawaii's roads are among the very best.

Agricultural Development.

Good roads are a necessary factor in the development of agricultural industries, and now that the Territory is planning to assist the small producer by opening up a central distributing point and creating a market for our agricultural products, I feel that the small farmer now has a chance, and the outlook for diversified industries in Hawaii is more encouraging than ever before.

Sugar will, of course, continue to be the principal output. The crop of 1910-1911, estimated at over 550,000 tons, was one of the largest and most valuable ever produced in the islands, the result of thorough cultivation and careful management.

Pineapples have displaced rice in its long-held position as second in value on our list of products.

Coffee not only holds its own, but the output is gradually increasing.

Tobacco has within the past year passed out of the experimental stage and may now be looked upon as an established industry, with the brightest prospects possible.

Cotton, owing to the long and valuable staple produced here, also has a bright future, which is particularly fortunate, as this is a crop suited to the man with but one acre of ground as well as the company with hundreds of acres and unlimited capital.

Irrigation.

Now that experts in the employ of the federal government and private parties are making exhaustive studies of our watersheds, the rainfall, dependable runoff, etc., we may expect to see within the near future the unbounding of additional large supplies of water and the opening up of many thousands of acres of fertile land which now lies idle.

Building.

The opening up of new additions on our beautiful hill slopes has resulted in an unusual amount of building. Residences, large and small, are going up in every direction. Downtown a number of large and modern business blocks have been erected. Additions have also been made to our pineapple canneries, and today we can lay claim to the largest fruit canning plant in the world.

Another big development which, being in an out-of-the-way place, is not often seen, is going on at the plant of the Standard Oil Company, which is busily erecting huge tanks for holding additional supplies of gasoline, kerosene and distillate. The management of this great enterprise, believing that the time is near at hand when gasoline and distillate will supplant coal and crude oil on all steamers, are getting ready to carry the enormous supply that will eventually be needed by the hundreds of steamships which will make Honolulu a port of call upon the opening of the Panama Canal.

As soon as these improvements are completed, Honolulu will be made the distributing point for the Hawaiian Islands and Oceania instead of San Francisco, as at the present. The manufacturing of cans and cases will also be carried on here in buildings now being erected for that purpose.

Sanitary Conditions.

The recent appointment by the governor of the Territory of an active, able sanitary commission means much for the future healthfulness of the port. The members of this commission hold daily sessions in the rooms of the Chamber and are apparently determined that Honolulu shall continue to be known as the healthiest port in the Pacific.

Military Occupation of Oahu.

The amount of work accomplished, under way and in prospect by authority of the federal government, is something stupendous, involving the expenditure of many millions of dollars, the building of different army posts and huge fortifications which will eventually be occupied by a force of at least ten thousand men.

In addition to what the army authorities are doing, the secretary of the navy is pushing work at Pearl Harbor. Dredging is far enough along to permit the largest men-of-war to make their way through the channel to the protected inner harbor with its magnificent anchorage ground. Work on the dry dock is progressing rapidly and satisfactorily, and plans have just been approved for extensive machine shops, officers' quarters, men's barracks, etc.

Among other important matters given consideration during the year were the following:

Panama-Pacific International Exposition—Unanimous endorsement of San Francisco as the logical place for the 1915 exposition. Special resolutions, cables and letters being sent to members of Congress and others in regard to the matter.

Hilo Harbor—Endorsement of Major

Winslow's plans for improvement after a careful examination and exhaustive report by the Committee on Harbors, Shipping and Transportation.

Marine Corps, Requisitions—Secretary of navy petitioned to grant local merchants opportunity to submit bids.

Free Panama Tolls—As a result of an able report on the subject by the Committee on Harbors, Shipping and Transportation, the delegate to Congress was urged to assist the movement looking to securing free tolls through the Panama Canal for all vessels engaged in the coastwise trade of the United States.

City Barracks—Army authorities urged to locate headquarters for such troops as may be quartered in the city on waterfront near Fort Armstrong.

Legislation.

During the last session of the Legislature, the Legislative Committee of the Chamber combined with Committees from the Planters' and Merchants' Association employing an Attorney giving careful scrutiny to every Bill presented, accomplishing in this way much good for our business interests and helping secure for needed Territorial improvements large appropriations.

Civic Affairs.

The following extract from a letter written by the Secretary of the Lake Mohonk conference is of general interest.

"Since we began our attempt to interest business organizations in the Arbitration movement, we have been looking for a model resolution passed on the subject by a business organization. Of the several hundred, we have received, the one adopted by your Chamber on June 12th, 1911, is far the nearest to a model. Accept our very best thanks for the action."

While the Chamber has always taken a deep interest in Civic Affairs, it is only recently that we have added to our activities a permanent Committee on International Arbitration.

In this connection, I might say that it has given me great pleasure, as President of the Chamber, to assist in arranging for the entertainment of Dr. David Starr Jordan, that eminent advocate of Peace, whose splendid address last evening at the Royal Hawaiian Opera House will, I feel assured, do much to bring our people to a full realization of the great movement now going on, having for its object, the substitution of Courts of Arbitration for the Clash of Arms.

Entertainment of Members Consular Service.

Following out the custom of previous years, all consuls calling at our port have been made well acquainted with the business interests as well as the attractions of Honolulu.

Commercial Delegates to China.

Early in the Chamber of Commerce year, we were visited by a large and representative body of business men, members of the leading Commercial organizations of the Pacific Coast, delegates to visit the Far East as the guests of the Commercial bodies of China. These gentlemen were accompanied by their wives and during the stay of their steamer in port, the members of the party were the guests of our Chamber. The banquet given in their honor at the Young Hotel was a notable event in the history of the Chamber.

Messrs. F. L. Waldron and E. C. Brown represented the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce on this most important trip.

Representation at Washington.

In April of this year, the arrangement then in force with Mr. Geo. McK McClellan as our representative at Washington, was ordered extended for another year from the 1st of October, 1911, the Trustees being in thorough accord as to the great value of Mr. McClellan's service to the community. The Territory continues to be under many obligations to our representative in Congress, Delegate Kalaniano'le.

National Conventions.

The Chamber was represented at the leading Conventions held on the mainland during the year, such as the Trans-Mississippi Commercial Congress, Mohonk Conference, etc.

Distribution of Annuals.

The Annuals issued by the Chamber are now mailed to all members of the American Consular Service, the leading Commercial Organizations of the World and to the principal Libraries as well as to the leading papers published around the Globe. These publications are greatly appreciated, scarcely a week passing without requests for copies being received from different parts of the World.

Painting of Honolulu Harbor . . . During the year a splendid painting of Honolulu Harbor by Coulter the celebrated marine artist was secured and donated by the Chamber to the Merchants' Exchange of San Francisco and now occupies a prominent place in the principal room of the Exchange.

Membership.

The membership of the Chamber has few years. At the present time, there are 144 names enrolled on the active list.

Necrology.

In the death of Archibald Scott Clegern, the Chamber lost one of its charter members. Only four of the notable group of twenty-two men who, on the 30th day of June, 1883, were granted a Charter by the Hon. Charles T. Gulick, then Minister of the Interior to King Kalakaua, are still living.

The death of Honorable Henry P. Baldwin, a member of the Chamber, who was deeply interested in its activities was a severe loss to the business community.

Investments.

As a result of careful management, our bonds, sugar and pineapple stocks continue to be sought after as being among the safest and best of investments.

As an indication of value of Hawaiian securities, it is interesting to note that the $1,500,000 of Territorial bonds just placed, were subscribed for several times over, being sold at a good premium.

Committees.

During the year, Mr. D. P. R. Isenberg was appointed on the Hawaii Promotion Committee to succeed Mr. Norman Watkins, resigned.

Messrs. C. H. Cooke, Geo. P. Denison and J. D. Dole were appointed by me to represent the Chamber on the Shippers Wharf Committee.

A permanent Committee on International Arbitration was also authorized the first members appointed being W. A. Bowen, R. F. Lange, G. J. Waller.

I earnestly hope that the different committees of the Chamber may keep in close touch with the Sanitary, Harbor and Road Commissioners recently appointed by the Governor, helping out and cooperating with them in every way possible.

Trustees.

On June 28th, Mr. T. Clive Davies was elected as a trustee, vice Mr. E. H. Wodehouse, resigned, on account of protracted absence from the Territory. With this exception, there have been no changes in the Board of Trustees for the year 1910-1911. I am very grateful to the trustees for the splendid manner in which they have taken hold of the work of the Chamber. Their cooperation and support have made my year's work for the organization much lighter and more successful than it could otherwise have been.

Conclusion.

Your president feels that he would be neglecting an important duty if he failed before closing this report to make an earnest appeal to the members of the Chamber to take a more decided interest in the work of the organization. We are in need of a more get together spirit. Do not feel that you have done your duty as a member of the Chamber when you have paid your dues and elected your officers and trustees. Do not argue that you have relegated everything on them, that the entire responsibility of running the Chamber is on their shoulders. Your officers and trustees are entitled to your support and can do better work if they feel that they not only have your confidence but your active cooperation.

I feel that the present is the period in our history with the greatest possibilities and that to be successful we must stand shoulder to shoulder and work as never before.

I would again urge upon the members the desirability of securing a home of their own.

A Chamber of Commerce building with rooms for exhibit and a large hall where addresses and meetings of the Chamber and other organizations can be held, is an absolute necessity for this growing city.

It has been a great privilege and a distinct honor to have occupied the position of president of the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce for four years in succession. I deeply appreciate the opportunity thus afforded me to serve the community in this way and I am greatly indebted to the officers and trustees with whom it has been my pleasure to labor.

Respectfully submitted,

JAS. F. MORGAN,
President, Honolulu Chamber of Commerce.
